Message from the Chaplain

I've heard a lot of people say that the God of the Old Testament is so much meaner than the God of the New Testament. It's like the comedian Lewis Black said, "Once God had a Son, he really calmed down a lot."

I've been preaching from the prophet Hosea lately. Hosea is addressing the corruption in Israel 7 ½ centuries before Jesus is born. Hosea is one of the 12 Minor Prophets in the Old Testament, the Angry God Testament. Hosea is addressing a situation where Israel has had corrupt kings and religious leaders for many generations. His words of warning have been a long time coming. And he really lets them have it. Strong words of condemnation and warning. He's saying that actions have consequences, even if God is slow to anger and abounding in steadfast love.

Hosea is saying that Israel has been warned enough. Now it's too late. Your actions have led to a place of no return. The road to ruin is now at your doorstep and there's no escape. Have you ever been there?

Oddly enough, even when Hosea has told Israel that ruin will come to them at the hands of the Assyrians that they're beyond redemption, and that God is very upset with them, nevertheless, but, yet....

There comes a non sequitur, a change in narrative that abruptly switches from condemnation to a promise of redemption.

Hosea 1:7

But I will have pity on the house of Judah, and I will save them by the Lord their God; I will not save them by bow, or by sword, or by war, or by horses, or by horsemen."

Hosea is saying that Judah, the remaining two tribes of Israel in the south, will be saved, not by military or economic might, but by the quality of their relationship with God.

It's not an angry vindictive God that's looking to destroy us. This is a God who is personal and deeply affected by what we do here on earth. This is a God who anguishes over children who are hell bent on rebellion and destruction. In the end, it's not God who destroys us. We destroy ourselves.

This is the God of the Prodigal Son, who will do anything to bring us back into relationship. It's up to us to respond.

Keep the faith,
Chaplain Glen
